Introduction

The "FrandsenFiles Criminal Dossier" is a proactive and highly focused investigative registry meticulously designed to catalogue, document, and publicly expose the spectrum of criminal and harmful behaviors encountered through the operations and community ventures spearheaded by Dakota Frandsen and the Bald and Bonkers Network LLC. This crucial initiative has been established to directly confront a rapidly escalating and deeply concerning trend within the paranormal, supernatural, spiritual, and New Age communities, where instances of organized fraudulent activities, persistent harassment, targeted stalking, and various forms of abuse have become alarmingly pervasive. By systematically cataloging and centralizing this evidence, the dossier functions simultaneously as a powerful, community-wide deterrent and an invaluable, structured resource for public awareness, victim support, and, most critically, for facilitating swift and effective law enforcement intervention.

Origins, Motivation, and Core Purpose

The inspiration and necessity for this comprehensive registry emerged directly from Frandsen's repeated, direct, and often harrowing encounters with a diverse array of malicious activities. These experiences include, but are not limited to, sophisticated deceptive financial practices, relentless criminal harassment and cyberstalking, credible threats of violence, sexually exploitative and abusive behaviors, sustained verbal abuse, and other malicious or illegal conduct. While the Bald and Bonkers Network LLC operates fundamentally within the spheres of entertainment, investigative research, and community engagement, it has been observed that countless unscrupulous individuals have systematically exploited the inherent vulnerabilities and lack of oversight in these fields for egregious personal gain or to inflict deliberate harm upon others. Therefore, the FrandsenFiles Criminal Dossier is purposefully engineered to establish a clear and essential distinction: to separate genuine, ethical research and entertainment from outright fraudulent claims, dangerous manipulation, and verifiable criminal behaviors. It serves as a definitive line in the sand.

Integration, Scope, and Evolution of the Bald and Bonkers Blacklist

The FrandsenFiles Criminal Dossier is recognized as an official, critical expansion of the established Bald and Bonkers Blacklist. The original Blacklist is an internal administrative document primarily used to identify and ban individuals who have violated the operational conduct policies of the Bald and Bonkers Network LLC, thereby preventing their participation in any network-affiliated operations or events.

The Criminal Dossier, however, adopts a significantly broader and more ambitious mandate. It transcends internal operational concerns by actively tracking and documenting individuals whose conduct constitutes harmful, illegal, or exploitative activity within the wider paranormal and spiritual communities, regardless of their association with the Network. This pivotal expansion ensures that those who actively manipulate, defraud, stalk, and exploit vulnerable individuals are not only excluded from the Network's operations but are also publicly acknowledged, structurally documented, and held accountable under a systematic and persistent framework.

Public Accessibility, Security, and Critical Legal Considerations

Maintaining the delicate but essential balance between full legal integrity and maximum public transparency is central to the dossier's design. To this end, the complete registry will be made publicly accessible to ensure maximum community awareness. However, to proactively mitigate potential legal ramifications (such as defamation claims) and protect the investigative integrity of the data, all primary identifying information for listed individuals will be encrypted and anonymized at the public-facing level. This encryption strategy prevents immediate identification while still providing the necessary awareness of the documented pattern of behavior to protect potential victims.

Crucially, the full, unredacted codex—containing complete details, verified evidence, and the legal identities of the individuals documented—will be strictly restricted. This comprehensive codex will be made immediately available only to verified law enforcement agencies, state and federal authorities, and relevant legal and regulatory bodies. This protocol is specifically designed to aid in formal criminal investigations, facilitate enforcement actions, and support judicial processes.

Overarching Objectives and Anticipated Impact

The FrandsenFiles Criminal Dossier operates under a clear set of primary objectives, each designed to foster a safer and more ethical community environment:

1. Awareness & Victim Protection: To actively educate the broader public about the sophisticated and often predatory ways in which paranormal, supernatural, and spiritual movements are being systematically misused, exploited, and weaponized for financial fraud, emotional manipulation, and harmful, criminal activities.
2. Systematic Accountability: To implement a rigorous, structured, and persistent methodology for identifying, documenting, and tracking repeat offenders, habitual fraudsters, and malicious actors across the entirety of these interconnected communities.

3. Law Enforcement Collaboration: To establish and maintain a critical, formalized conduit for sharing comprehensive and organized data with law enforcement agencies and investigative bodies, thereby substantially assisting in criminal investigations and supporting subsequent prosecutions.
4. Strategic Deterrence: To significantly discourage and disrupt the operations of malicious actors by dramatically increasing the verifiable risk of public exposure, structured documentation, and formal legal accountability for their exploitation of vulnerable individuals.

Conclusion and Future Mandate

The implementation of the FrandsenFiles Criminal Dossier represents a decisive and critical step toward the comprehensive safeguarding of individuals who genuinely seek knowledge, community, spiritual engagement, and ethical investigative paranormal research. By directly confronting and structurally documenting the plague of fraudulent claims, abusive behaviors, and verifiable criminal actions, this pioneering initiative is fundamentally aimed at cultivating a safer, more ethical, and less exploitative environment within the paranormal and spiritual movements. Through its structured, evidence-based approach to documentation and its unwavering commitment to enforcement collaboration, the dossier is poised to become an indispensable cornerstone in the ongoing, vital fight against exploitation and harm in these highly sensitive fields.

FrandsenFiles Threat Level Classification System

- Police and Court Involvement: Yes, subject has documented criminal record
- Description: 4'10" tall, several tattoos of her children's names, brunette hair, missing teeth (from possible narcotics use), possible bipolar schizophrenic tendencies, Caucasian
- Summary: Subject has long been associated with cycles of child abuse. Likely having endured some in her own childhood, due to likely genetic dispositions to bipolar schizophrenia. Subject became romantically involved with known male sexual deviant at the age of 16, serving as the mistress of said individual. Has history of LSD use. Subject attempted to kill the firstborn son, aged three-years-old at the time of incident, of her romantic partner in order to cease constant police and custodial disputes, however was critically injured when the child fought back.

Years later, the subject became the target of a criminal investigation after evidence was presented that the aforementioned romantic partner had frequently sexually assaulted her firstborn daughter. The daughter allegedly showed signs of allowing the sexual advances to become consensual. It was speculated that the subject allowed her daughter to endure the abuse, so she herself would not become the target. However police were unable to find substantial enough evidence to pursue criminal charges. After she was able to get the children back, it is speculated that due to falling back into patterns of drug use, subject abandoned her children with their grandparents and continued to take up residence in known drug dens within Southern Idaho. It is also speculated, though unconfirmed, she poisoned the pet dog of her children.

April 2026, subject was spotted being arrested on a felony DUI with a stolen vehicle.

A former National Guardsman in the state of Idaho, he was dishonourably discharged from the military after allegations and subsequent investigations proved that subject had sexually assaulted his own daughter for a number of years. The assaults were discovered by another family member, through a Facebook chat that was left open, which suggested the sexual activities may have become consensual. The discovery of the Facebook messages traced back the abuse to seven years prior, when subject was stationed in Iraq - though police speculated, but were unable to confirm, the abuse took place much longer.

It should also be noted that a total of 11 soldiers in the same platoon have all been tried on similar charges of sexual misconduct.

Subject currently serves a likely lifetime sentence in an Arizona prison, with any chance of parole already being destroyed. Sources inside the prison system have notified Frandsen that subject was caught distributing drugs and alcohol in the prison, and snitching on top-prison gangs when caught. Subject's inmate status being updated verifies this notion.

It is believed that due to an interpersonal conflict with one of his more popular guests (possibly involving subject's late mother), and rumors of promoting "alien grey agendas" while attending a convention on galactic and spiritual concepts. Though the audience has shown harsh tendencies to exaggerate reports, it is the subsequent outbursts which warrant this report - many that seem to be fuel by psychological duress and reliance on alcohol.

Interpersonal conflict between aforementioned guest and subject prompts subject into a series of verbal abuses and threats of violence. Subject also managed to infiltrate a private chat group, of which Frandsen was a part, leaving threats to open fire on guests of a following convention - warranting inclusion in this record.

Subject seems to have shifted focus, given retaliation due to his frequent efforts to stir up threats of violence against women - however the mental instability warrants further monitoring

Frandsen took part in efforts to track down the subject's home address to place a welfare check on the subject. Responding officers confirmed subject was fine, subject suddenly becoming coherent and to her usually self-proclaimed Grammar Nazi tendencies (compared to her earlier efforts to make herself seem inebriated by drugs and/or alcohol) raised the final straws.

Inclusion in this record is warranted by continued reports of this behavior. Recommended action is to advise against any collaboration with subject until further notice.

Subject also reportedly hid monetary deposit information in company programs to steal raised funds.

- Case Discovered by: Frandsen was part of the same company where criminal actions took place.

Case #00012

- Subject Name: Misuse of Artificial Intelligence Programs
- Location: Online
- Crimes Listed: Deepfake Porn, Fraudulent use of voice and image, Financial Scams
- Threat Level: Level 5
- Police and Court Involvement: Police notified, however cyber initiatives are lacking in legal parameters
- Description: Numerous scam groups utilizing advancements in artificial intelligence programs
- Summary: Though not the intended sort of entries for the FrandsenFiles Compendium, the numerous reports of AI being utilized across various crimes - the legal statutes of AI generation programs making the crimes difficult to process in due time to prevent damage to various life aspects.

Voice cloning capabilities with AI voice generations programs, especially with programs like ElevenLabs, are able to produce near-perfect replicas of a person's speech patterns when trained just on 10 minutes of audio. Numerous reports of individuals receiving scam phone calls using the cloned voices of the target's loved ones prompting further investigation knowing exactly how these technologies are being implemented, and how scammers are acquiring the voice data.

Another topic of focus is image generations. While the tools may be fun, and often the source of discouragement, ment for those in creative careers, the utilization of these programs to create and distribute pornographic imagery is another major focus of crimes centered on AI misuse. Sophisticated programs allowing people to swap faces with others, or even swap full body scans, opens the potential for misuse and fraudulent claims.

Counter measures should involve more people taking the time to become familiar with the various programs made available, many of which cost nothing to use. In the age of misinformation, the quick ability to falsify potential "evidence" of various kinds and lack of initiative to properly investigate the origins of such claims, will only fuel further online controversies and division. As it stands immediate counter measures against voice cloning technologies is careful listening of tones in one's voice over electronic means. Many of these programs lack training in producing certain accents, and subtle nuances in human speech are still far from perfected even with the most immediate AI models. Certain programs require one to read off a training script, which does inhibit some ability to immediately recreate the voice of an unsuspecting victim.

In claims of "deepfakes," immediate solutions unfortunately rely on intimate details of the subject in question; i.e. placement of tatoos, scars, or other identifying marks - meaning those targeted may need to have a trusted figure examine intimate regions of the body. Even the most sophisticated models of image generation software still have trouble with subtle light reflections in the eyes, teeth, and often the inclusion of extra fingers or limbs. As these models continue to be trained, these details are likely to be corrected.

In combating deepfake porn, many of these programs (including ones initially designed for pornographic image generation) have taken steps to eliminate recreation. However, patient users are still able to prompt the generations into producing near-perfect reproductions of the intended target's features with clever wording and experimentation.

It should also be heavily advised, and advocated, that techcompanies offer cooperation with law enforcement agencies to help combat more severe cases.

In spiritual/supernatural circles: the use of AI generation softwares in a topic of concern due to the ease of creating potentially false "evidence" of criminal claims. One of the most recent claims of individuals trying to claim ChatGPT is being used to speak to higher dimensional beings. This emphasizes the need for better education in the public regarding these various tools.

Case #00013

- Subject Name: (redacted)
- Location: United Kingdom
- Crimes Listed: Cyberbullying, Sexual Misconduct, Potential Sexual Misconduct with a Minor, Possession of Child Pornography
- Threat Level: Level 2
- Police and Court Involvement: Police involved, Prison time served, evidence of lengthy police surveillance
- Description: 5'5", early 40s, Caucasian, shoulder length black hair, glasses, heavy facial hair
- Summary: Subject was often subject of concerns due to sexually charged "jokes," often perceived as someone who just crossed lines into more "darker humor." Numerous women had stated they had felt uncomfortable around subject from the jokes, however no substantiated evidence was brought forward to back the claims being made.

Subject exhibited suicidal patterns which seemed triggered by some exterior matter, however, subject was elusive on sharing what exactly triggered these tendencies.

Subject of Case #00011 was romantically involved, having shared with Frandsen the reason behind the suicidal ideations - revealing legal proceedings to sentence Subject of Case #00013 for sex crimes against a then 16 year old girl. The proceedings have been underway for some time, mainly delayed due to prison restrictions from COVID-19 pandemic. However when subject of Case #00011 revealed this to Frandsen, Frandsen was unable to understand her due to her emotional state.

Eventually a sentencing was underway, Frandsen becoming fully aware of the extent of crimes when a woman living in the same region as subject forwarded a news article to Frandsen and several other key members of the paranormal investigation company we all worked under. Frandsen and his then partner took it upon themselves to investigate further, discovering at least 13 women who all detailed sexual misconduct by subject. Frandsen took part in efforts to publicly address the sentencing, however, others in positions of power opted to harass, suppress, and bully those who spoke out.

Frandsen was able to cleverly utilize anonymized messaging to forward aforementioned news article to as many people as possible - triggering a PR hell for those who opted to cover up the allegations. Further publicized efforts of cyberbullying further buried the remaining members of the company, by essentially tricking them to metaphorically "bury themselves."

Inclusion of this incident in the Dossier is to address further issues of mob mentality and enabling of predatory behaviors. The company mentioned, while legally dissolved, is gaining traction for a comeback under a new name. Surveillance is underway as many of the troublesome figures in the previous iteration of the company have returned, already showing predatory habits and lingering resentment towards those who publicly broadcasted the conduct.

- Case Discovered by: Frandsen was part of the same company where criminal actions took place. Agreements were made, for the same of children involved, to officially part ways. Frandsen also states that if subject is able to prove their innocence in regards to the criminal charges, as he was released early and attempted to mend bridges with Frandsen, he will issue a public apology. However, others connected to the company have already shown predatory stalking, warranting this inclusion.

Case #00014

- Subject Name: (redacted)
- Location: United Kingdom - Scotland
- Crimes Listed: Fraud, Cyberstalking, Cyberbullying
- Threat Level: Level 2
- Police and Court Involvement: No known police involvement
- Description: 6'3", Bald, goatee, square rimmed glasses, drives a minivan
- Summary: Subject presents threat due to ego and acceptance desperation; wanting to be seen as an important figure within the supernatural and willing to falsify claims of being psychic to do so. Subject had been tested, even pushed into admitting he had falsified claims, resorting in misinformation efforts to draw attention away from himself.

Suspicious first aroused when subject was claiming to receive visitations and channelings from higher dimensional beings associated with Frandsen's case. Frandsen personally brought in four experts to profile subject; three of which determined while subject may possess some latent psychic potential - the probability of fraud and ego remains too high to consider subject a viable asset.

Frandsen continued to monitor the situation, hoping the pursuits of ego were merely a byproduct of excitement rather than malice. However, as time went on, subject started to branch away from Frandsen after efforts to take over Bald and Bonkers Network LLC were fruitless - strictly protected against hostile takeover with networking options within some of the biggest corporations to help assist in legal matters if deemed necessary.

Subject also expresses tendencies to prey upon women; often showing malice and spreading further misinformation towards anyone who receives attention from a female subject he has his eyes on - even if the relationship is strictly platonic and/or professional.

Subject has established an online psychic platform that is to be monitored for future incidents.

Cases 15-19

Case #00015

- Subject Name: (Redacted)
- Location: Ireland
- Crimes Listed: Fraud, Animal Neglect, Cyberstalking, Stalking, Cyberbullying, Drunken Disorderly Conduct, Theft, Child Endangerment; Criminal Harassment
- Threat Level: Level 4
- Police and Court Involvement: Active Investigation and Monitoring
- Description: Late 50s, trimmed hair, obese, glasses
- Summary: Subject shows narcissistic and attention seeking victim tendencies stemming from unresolved childhood trauma. Subject also is known to attempt to use deaths of a parental figure and significant other to justify frequent outbursts of harassment and bullying of others. Attempts to establish dominance in supernatural circles, though shows absolutely no knowledge, ability, or comprehension of genuine phenomenon - spending a majority of so-called investigations scrolling through social media pages on her cell phone. Attempts to claim creating supernatural experiments which have been noted in personal journals of well-known inventors - such as Thomas Edison's theorized spirit phone - far longer than she has even been alive.

Further investigations into the subject have revealed animal abandonment, even though subject tries to claim to be a respected animal rescuer; falsely claimed romantic affairs in order to destroy the interpersonal relationships of those who offended her, even utilizing the social media accounts of underage individuals (who show signs of developmental disabilities), and frequent associations with child predators.

Subject also is known to utilize livestreams through private Facebook groups (a common move with child predation rings) to rally support from unsuspecting and equally mentally disturbed individuals - providing little to no genuine evidence of wrongdoing. Subject has had multiple encounters with law enforcement, likely desensitizing her from any sense of repercussions for her actions.
